Descendants of Jacob Klock

Part 1

Generation No. 1

1. JACOB² KLOCK (*HENDRICK*¹) was born October 08, 1708 in Stone Arabia, New York, and died May 09, 1798 in Montgomery Co., New York. He married (1) ELIZABETH BELLINGER, daughter of FREDRICK BELLINGER and ANNA FOX. She was born Bet. 1712 - 1715, and died Bef. 1766. He married (2) CATHARINA NELLIS July 27, 1781, daughter of CHRISTIAN NELLIS and BARVALIS KLOCK. She was born December 23, 1723, and died August 20, 1805 in Montgomery Co., New York.

Notes for JACOB KLOCK:

Jacob Klock was an officer in the French and Indian War where he was taken prisoner. He was a Captain in the Second Battalion Albany County Militia during that war. Albany and Montgomery County were same county at that time. He was also in the Revolutionary War. He commanded the 2nd. Reg't., Tyron County, New York State Militia. He was known as Col. Jacob Klock.

Col. Jacob Klock also signed the Mohawk Valley Declaration of Independence.

He was married to Catharina Nellis Helmer, daughter of Christian and Barbara (Klock) Helmer. He was also married to Elizabeth Bellinger.

Jacob Klock. He served as the colonel of the Palatine District Regiment of Militia, and is stated to have often been in the command of Fort Plank in 1779 and 1780. (James Barhyte, RWPA # S12948; Samuel French RWPA #s29163; Gansevoort Military Papers NYSA) During the Revolutionary War Colonel Klock possessed 325 acres of land in Lot 13 of the Harrison Patent (Certificates of Quit Rent Remissions, Mss#A1211, Box D7816)---Ken D. Johnson, The Bloodied Mohawk.

Col. Jacob Klock was born on 8 Oct 1708. He died on 11 May 1798.---Date of Birth of Col. Jacob Klock from the Billinger Family Tree on the Internet "Descendants of Hans Bellinger Fifth Generation" Genealogy of the Bellinger's and allied families Pioneer settlers of the Mohawk Valley, New York. The Genealogy on the Mohawk Valley Bellingers and Allied Families by Lyle Frederick Bellinger gives the date of birth of Jacob Klock as October 8, 1705 or 1708. I am using the 1705 date in my tree. Gens Web also has the date of birth of Jacob Klock as Oct 8, 1805.

Jacob married Catharine NELLIS, daughter of Christian NELLIS and Barvalis KLOCK, on 27 Jul 1781 in , , New York. (Catharine NELLIS was born on 23 Dec 1723-18 Jan 1724 in , , New York, died on 20 Aug 1805 in St. Johnsville, Montgomery, New York and was buried in St. Johnsville, Montgomery, New York.)--SZT

Although it is generally accepted that Jacob Klock was the son of Hendrick Klock, no one really knows his exact date of birth or if he was the son of Hendrick Klock. The following is from Jephtha Simms. He places the colonel as the son of old George Klock, not the brother.

It is difficult to locate all the prominent citizens of this vicinity in their own little castles. Next to Fort Hess seems to have been Fort Klock, a palisaded stone house then owned and occupied by John Klock, father of Adam Klock, which house is yet standing over a mile to the eastward of St. Johnsville. At a southeast upper window of this house, the widow of Peter Haner was standing on the day of Johnson's invasion, when a bullet, near spent, struck her head, and she sat down stunned but not seriously hurt. I am glad that this old landmark, which is a very ancient building, is allowed to remain. The dwelling of Old George Klock, as called to distinguish him from his son, I infer, stood not far above John Klock's and was perhaps best known as Fort Klock. He had two sons, Col. Jacob and George, and a daughter Margaret, who married Col. Ebenezer Cox--and after his death at Oriskany, married Hunter Quackenbush. Col. Klock, who married a daughter of Christian Nellis, then a widow Helmer, lived where Jonas Snell now lives, three-fourths of a mile below the village. The place has never been out of the Klock family, and Mrs. Snell was a Klock. On the land of one of the Klocks' was erected at an early period, a Reformed Dutch Church, a small edifice built of wood. It has neither steeple or bell, but had the sounding board of the times, over its one man pulpit. This church had some seats to accommodate Indian hearers. Domine Gros occasionally preached in this church before the Revolution. Rev. Henry Dyslin, reputed a good scholar, was one of its last pastors. George Bauder, a Stone Arabia boy of the revolution, assured the writer that the first Sabbath after his marriage in Kingsbush, he took his wife to this church. He thought the edifice was demolished about the year 1818. He died at Palatine Bridge, 1857 or 1858.--Henry Smith and others. The Frontiersmen of New York by Jephtha R. Simms; Albany, NY; 1883, Volume II, page 383.

Notes for CATHARINA NELLIS:

Daughter of Christian Nellis and Barbara Klock Catherine Nellis was the daughter of Barvalis Klock and Christian Nellis. She may have been born 18 Jan. 1724. Barvalis was the daughter of Hendrick Klock.

She married Col. Jacob Klock who was the son of Hendrick Klock. She is buried in Christian Nellis, Jr. spot in Klock Cemetery. Col. Jacob Klock was Catharina third husband.

Notes for ADAM KLOCK:

The Fonda Library, Amsterdam Chapter D A R pg. 17 gives buriels of Adam and Catharine as Dutch Churchyard, Manheim, New York.

From the Sherman O. Klock Genealogy:

Catherine Seeber is said by Simms the historian to have been the daughter of William Seeber, a German tradsman who keep a store before the French war to the west and not far from the present village of Fort Plain. Besides Catherine there were Magdalene, William Conrad, Audolph, and Jacob. William Seeber and his sons Audolph and Jacob were engaged at the battle of Oriskany under the banner of Herkimer, and it is quite likley that the remaining two sons were there also. Audolph was slain on the battle field, and William his father, and his brother Jacob were mortally wounded on that occasion.

William Seeber the father, came to this country with a wife taken in the fatherland, and upon her death (which probably ocured soon after their arrival here) he married a Miss. Walrath, and by her had three sons and two daughters namely: Henry John Adam Marilles (who married Peter Young) and Mary Elizabeth who never married. After that death of William Sr. his widow married John Rolfe who lived at the Boght, then a small Dutch settlement near Cohoes.

Magdalene Seeber, the sister of Catherine, married Fredrick Bell, who turned tory, fled to Canada, and coming down with the British force under Sir. John Johnson, and died some two days later at his home where his wife, a woman of remarkable energy, had brought him. He left two small children, Betsey who afterward married George Fox, and Christina who became later teh wife of George Diefendorf.

Adam Klock, like his brother-in-law Bell, too turned tory, and he too took part in the Johnson battle, but unlike the latter was less fortunate in getting himself killed off there. In an affidavit sworn to by one Nicholas Herkimer, he with nine others, including the deponent, and one Jacob I. Klock, left the valley on Sunday evening July 1, 178, setting their faces toward Canada, which place they reached in eleven days. Some two months later a portion of this party returned to the valley to perpetrate a dastardly deed and were soundly trounced for their efforts. Adam Klock does not appear to have been with this party, but Jacob I. Klock's name is mentioned in that part of the affidavit which tells of this affray.

Who was this Jacob I. Klock: There was but one Jacob I. Klock that I know of, and he was the son of Johannes. But I do not infer that he was the man in question: there may have been another Jacob I. Adam Klock returned to his family after the war, and tradition says that he was not received with marked favor by his relations who had took an active and patriotic part in the struggle for liberty. In the "Normander Papers" mentioned in the sketch of Col. Jacob Klock, was one written by Jacob G. Klock, and signed by Adam, giving his father the power of attorney, which was executed while he was in the British service. Just what this was done for I do not know. If he was the owner of any landed property at that time I have failed to discover it. There never was any property of any Klock confiscated, during, or after the war.

While his father did not disinherit him, he did leave the farm on the reverted to the remaining grandchildren. That was in the year 1798, and from that date all traces of him, his wife and the son Jacob, have been in vain so far as the writer is concerned, although Adam (No. 1097) who is said, but not without question, to have married Catherine Staring, has been viewed with suspicion as being this lost Adam.

Notes from the Sherman O. Klock Genealogy

Little is known of this man. It has been inferred by some that he to was a tory, but has never been proven. He may have been the Jacob I. mentioned in the sketch of his brother Adam, but if so then that is the only instance in which the initial " I " was used as a middle letter in his name. Else where it is noted as Jacob Klock Jr. or plain Jacob Klock, never with any middle initial. That he was dead in 1798 is proven by the will of his father who made ample provision for his widow Anna in his last will. His manner of death, and burial place is unknown. Anna Hess, his widow, never married again, and lived with her daughter Eva until her death. Many tales have been told to the writer by the Descendants of Anna, concerning the part she played in the Revolution---moulding bullets for use by the militia---driving a fatted bovine into the nearby corn field and butchering the animal to keep it from being driven away by the enemy---if there is any toryism in that family, and I beleive there was none, it surely had not affected her at that time. I stated above that she spent her last days with her daughter Eva; that is an error, for in looking over my notes I find that it was her daughter Anna instead. I have been unable to find the date of her death, and where she is buried. She no doubt lies in an unmarked grave like many other heric men and women of that day.

The Genealogy fo the Mohawk Valley Bellingers and Allied Families by Lyle Fredrick Bellinger gives 4 children born to Jacob Jr. and Anna Hess and that Jacob died before 1792-1898. According to the Bellinger book he resigned May 16, 1780 and joined the British.

John Dysslin was a minister of the German Reformed Church at Palatine, St. Johnsville New York. He preached and wrote the church records in German. Notes for CHRISTIAN KLOCK:

From the Sherman O. Klock Genealogy:

Christian Klock, after the death of Col. Jacob Klock in 1798, lived on the homestead farm of the Colonel who had willed it tho Christian's wife Eva, and who came into possession of it upon her grand father death. The old dwelling place of the Colonel, which had witnessed many stirring scenes during the Revolution, and which had escaped the torch of the incendiaries who ran mad thoughtout the valley, was torn down about the year 1830, and a new house erected in its place; this building is still standing (1932) and is owned by the widow of the late Sheldon Klock, who bought the house and lot form the Snell estate. I might add that Sheldon Klock, was not closely related to Christian Klock, or his wife Eve, and did not inherit this property as has been said. Sheldon Klock married a Powell for his first wife, and the widow of John F. Klock for this second. The maiden name of his second wife was Lillian Richards, the daughter of Warren Richards.

Near this home, and perhaps on the very spot, Hendrick Klock the pioneer settler built his dwelling of logs not later than 1723, and near there he spent his remaining days. Near it onces stood the old Klock Church, and close by it the old Klock burial ground, where now lie many of name with unmarked graves. This Klock Church probably was built about 1750, and by Colonel Jacob Klock. Christian Klock served in the war of 1812 as Leicut. of the 1st. Regt. N.Y.S. militia.

Notes for SALLY KLOCK:

No record of their marriage, or of any children that may have been born to them. It should be noted that Sally A. Klock married one Abraham Snyder. It may be that in the course of time the names of the husbands of these two women have been confused. We are inclined to believe that the record of marriage as given by descendents is correct. There were Snyders who lived in the vicinity of the birth place of Sally Klock, and it is not unreasonable to believe she married some one of them. We find that on Nov. 13, 1764, one Ludwig Snyder, married Margretha Klock, and we also find that Ludwig and Margretha had a son Jacob born Dec. 7, 1766. The birth date of Sally Klock, is found in the Stone Arabia Reformed church records, Vol. 1, page 71. The marriage of Ludwig Snyder and Margretha Klock, is recorded in the marriage records of the same church, Vol. 1, page 175.---SOK

Sally Klock may have married Abraham Snyder. The 1860 Census for Theresa, Jefferson, New York lists Sally Klock (45) living with her parents, Joseph and Clarissa. If she did marry it was after 1860. Listed next on the census is her brother, Joseph and his family.

11. ADAM⁵ KLOCK (ADAM JOHANNES⁴, ADAM³, JACOB², HENDRICK¹) was born November 22, 1781, and died March 14, 1862. He married (1) CATHERINE SNYDER. She was born February 27, 1780, and died June 19, 1855. He married (2) LYDIA HOOVER. She was born May 31, 1787, and died June 24, 1875.

Notes for ADAM KLOCK:

Adam Klock, Jr. was born Nov. 22, 1781, died March 14, 1862, married 1st, Catherine Snyder, born Feb. 27, 1780 or 1781, who was burned to death June 19, 1855. She is buried in the Inghams Mills cemetery, on the family plot of Daniel Klock their son.

After the death of Catherine, Adam married 2 nd Lydia Hoover, and at the advanced age of "three score years and ten" he removed to St. Lawrence county where he lived the remainder of his life. He and his second wife are buried at Gouverneur, N.Y.

Lydia Hoover, born May 31, 1787, died June 24, 1875, may have been a widow at the time of her marriage with Adam Klock.----SOK Genealogy.

Sherman O. KLock Genealogy--- "It is said that Christopher was born at Stone Arabia, which leads to the conclusion that that was the residence of his father, George I., before his removal to East Creek. The War Department at Washington D.C. shows that he served as a private in Capt. Frederic Getmans Co. , 11th Reg. (Richs) New York Mil-in the war of 1812, from Aug 24, 1812 to Feb. 24, 1813, and as Corporal in Capt John I, (or J) Klocks Co., 19th Reg. (Getmans) New York militia, from Sept. 7, 1814, for which service he received a land grant of 160 acres from the government.

He was a farmer by occupation, but when the tide of immigration set in to the westward, thru the Mohawk valley, we find him acting as the keeper of a tavern at St. Johnsville, N.Y. He died at , and is buried in the cemetery at that

Part III, Family Sketches

Klock, James N., was born in the town of Manheim, Herkimer county, N.Y., March 2, 1840. Peter A. Klock, his father, came to Steuben county in 1866, and settled at Coss' Corners. He married Catherine, daughter of Peter Woollever, and was identified through life as a farmer, and died in 1874, aged seventy-one years. James N. was educated in the common schools. He has made a study of the weather and its changes since 1859, and since 1890 he has been giving special attention to the science of Electro-Planetary-Meteorology. The basis of his theory is in the position of the inferior and superior planets relatively to the earth and its satellite and the sun, of which there are over 260 different positions taken into consideration. At the present time he is able to make an accurate forecast of the coming changes of the weather. In 1860 he married Irena, daughter of John Strough, by whom he had four children; John P., N. Julian, Melvin L., and Mrs. Olive C. Conine.
